the TRAIL 1936

"It's all here," said the staff. "All you have to do is to open the book now or years from now, and you'll find it just as you left it."

And the obliging editors opened the book, so that those who wanted to see caught glimpses of a life they knew and loved in a place called Salina High School. "Classmates, the faculty, the social corridor, the library with its miles of collaterals, activities in action, and the Maroons all suited and ready to go," they enumerated; and added as they closed the book, "the true story of the class of 1936."

WASHINGTON STUDENT OFFICERS

High school officers are student leaders chosen by the students themselves in the annual school election in October. Petitions determine the qualified candidates and electioneering and assembly speeches give reality to high school politics, but on election day the students make their choice.

President of the student council at Washington this year was Robert Sullivan, a senior ,who presided at student programs and at special assemblies. He was the promoter of Maroon Day, an all day rally with a lively pep parade down Sante Fe, which helped to brace the team for the Thanksgiving game.

Senior class officers have had no great problem this year other than that of selecting and financing a fitting memorial for the halls of Washington to assure future high school students that the class of 1936 passed this way on its educational trek.

Junior officers assumed the usual social responsibility of entertaining the seniors; consequently much of their energy and their talent was devoted to money-making schemes, collecting class assessments, planning decorations, and choosing eats for the Junior-Senior banquet of May 8.

LINCOLN STUDENT OFFICERS AND STUDENT COUNCIL

ROOSEVELT STUDENT OFFICERS

Lincoln Student Council this year with Grover Cobb as president sponsored a number of building projects. The Christmas decoration of Lincoln classrooms with its contest feature and the School-Progress assembly program were two of their successful undertakings. They served as ushers at the regular P T. A. meetings.

Sophmore and freshman class officers, besides carrying out their duties as class officials, had a part with the faculty committee in planning their respective weekly assembly programs. One of the class officers also presided at such assemblies and represented the class in this part of the program.

Roosevelt Student Council was a representive junior high school group with Robert Garrison of the eighth grade, president. The February hobby exhibit, spring declamation and music contests were major projects of the Roosevelt council. It also carried on the corridor poster publicity for scholarship and school spirit and sponsored and assisted the traffic committee in directing and limiting Roosevelt corridor speed during the rush hours of school.

Class officers cooperated with the student council and the faculty sponsors to make Roosevelt a successful unit in the tri-building high school group.

THE NEWS STAFF

The News Staff furnished news for Salina High with speed and accuracy. With the aid of the printing classes they published thirty issues of the "Salina High News" this year.

Eight delegates from the class attended a journalism conference at Lawrence. An outstanding activity of the class was the newspaper exhibit and tea held in the staff-room during Educational Week.

Journalism students gained a better and a clearer understanding of the news as published in the daily papers and the experience in carrying out special kinds of news service, such as interviews, human interest stories, and features.

The 1936 Trail makers were fifteen representative seniors who spent their activity periods planning and building the Trail. Anna Marie Miller, assisted by Wilberta Montgomery and LeRoy Fink, were the editors, Fink giving most of his time to the advertising section of the book. Doris Nelson acted as the able copy manager; Laura Lee Waring sponsored the snapshot pages. The features were contributed by Margaret Mae Crawford. Junior Boughton wrote the sport stories. Every member of the staff made contributions both of copy and of service that had a definite part in building this Trial.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

How to get a job and draw a pay check gave the commercial club members a real problem for their Thursday meetings. Sometimes the business world's requirements for success were made clear in a short act with a big-business background, an exacting boss, and a commercial club member presenting good and bad office taste among moderns. Student report and guest speakers varied the programs, which were designed to present and to impress upon the club members the trifles that make perfection and success in the business world.

ELLEN H. RICHARDS CLUB

The Ellen H. Richards Club with a membership of 125 girls enrolled in the food department had a good reputation at S.H.S. for lively programs and good eats. The annual Christmas dinner of the club was the midwinter social event of the school. The D. S. cottage was the setting for a number of club events, one of which was the November tea given to the faculty and former club members. All of the organization were sponsored by Miss Anna Lora Miller, D. S. teacher at Washington.

The glee clubs were the chorus groups of the senior high school that furnished music for both school and community affairs. Combined, they formed the a capella choir. Any day during the fourth hour one had only to step into the new music room on the ground floor at Washington Building to see Mr. Thornton swing his baton and to hear these music-makers in action.

A high point in the glee clubs' experience this year was their appearance as the chorus of "Il Trovatore," put on by the Festival Opera Company of Chicago, at Memorial Hall, February 20.

During Music Week they sang two numbers on high-school night and appeared again on the commencement program in June. They were also contestants in the Central Kansas League festival, where their especially fine tone qualities gave them high ratings. Other scoring entrants in the C.K.L. festival were the girls' sextette, the boys' quartette, and the soloist, both boys and girls.

DEBATE CLUB

Sixteen energetic Washington students, that could be neither icebound nor snowbound during the forsenic season of January and February, made up the debate club. Though they won no outstanding victories, they were enthusiastic entrants at Topeka, Abilene, Emporia, and the Central Kansas League tournaments, losing in the league encounter the championship to Ellsworth by a close decision They made numerous trips to neighboring towns in zero weather, and when the season was over, still not being talked out, they coached Lincoln students for a building tournament.

KODAK CLUB

A kodak, interest in photography, and twenty-five cent dues were all that was necessary to belong to the Kodak Club. But once a member, one had the use of a dark room, a printing box, and an enlarging machine which was a decided advantage to the amateur photographer. Regular meetings were held every two weeks at which members learned to develop, to print, and to use the enlarging machine. An occasional talk by a Salina photographer gave the amateurs both information and inspiration. Qualifications for membership the second semester was a picture taken, developed, and printed by the applicant. The club had forty-six second-semester members.

WASHINGTON GIRL RESERVES CABINET

A mixer foi all senior high school girls set the Washington Girl Reserves in motion early in the school year and made the first splash of color on the 1936 G. R. Tapestry. A membership drive added 146 Washington girls who were interested in finding and giving the best. Fun, friendliness, and helpfulness were woven into all the activities of the club. Programs were varied and interesting. Candy sales did wonders for the finances of the service committee. A Christmas tea for mothers, near the holiday times, was a successful undertaking of the social committee, which also planned and carried out the May installation banquet.

The peak of the Washington Hi-y organization activities last year, according to its president, was the electrical demonstration by the Midwest assemblies which added knowledge to the students and money to the treasury. The club grew during the year in the quality of its programs and in the ideals of the organization. This spirit was best manifested at the Monday cabinate meetings. Garvin Van Meter, Allen Livers, and Ernest Klema arranged a series of programs that was interesting and profitable. Keith Schuerman, '36, was president of the Washington Hi-Y.

LINCOLN GIRL RESERVES CABINET

Lincoln Girl Reserves met each Wednesday, held their monthly cabinet meetings the first of each month, and hiked regularly on the third Thursday.

Their most interesting service projects were conducting the Red Cross election in February and acting as waitresses at the special Y. W. dinners. Providing for a family's needs at Thanksgiving and at Christmas and making scrapbooks for children's hospital wards were other definite service contributions of the Lincoln Club. Social events were a Christmas party for girls, a Dad and Daughter dinner in the spring, at which the new cabinet was installed, and a special mothers' meeting during Educational Week.

Discussion of such live subjects as Olympic sports, World Peace problems, and vocations for boys and men, varied by a series of Bible studies led by the Reverend Mr. Arend of the University Methodist Church, made up the regular weekly study-program of the Lincoln Hi-Y. On special occasions invited speakers gave the club a talk on some subject of current interest. The organization, open to any boy in Lincoln Building, had a membership of forty-three. Jim Surface, a sophmore, was the president of the Lincoln Hi-Y.

ROOSEVELT GIRL RESERVES CABINET

Roosevelt Girl Reserves were organized into two groups, each carrying out a social and a service program somewhat similar. The hike to Riverside and a Columbus Day Voyage were the first of a series of good times that reached a climax in the Mothers' and Daughters' Tea in April. The social service of the clubs centered around its Thanksgiving and its Christmas gifts of food and clothing. Members collected childrens' magazines for the Americanization Center and made scrapbooks and planted bulbs for hospital gifts.

Responsibility was the idea behind the weekly meetings of the Roosevelt Junior Hi-Y clubs; consequently every boy was given a chance to assume and carry out some definite part of the club's work. The responsibilities included planning and securing programs for the weekly meetings, taking part in some phase of the program, acting as hosts and guides to visitors, and performing various other duties as they presented themselves in the school's activities. Training in Christian leadership was the chief aim of the Roosevelt clubs.

"A" AND "B" TEAMS

FOOTBALL

JUNIOR FURDY, Halfback, Senior

Coming from Topeka in his junior year, Purdy earned two letters by his running, passing and kicking. He called signals and did a good job piloting the team.

BILL SHEDDON, Halfback, Senior

Bill's speed was shown in every game when he carried the ball on reverse plays and ran interference. This was Bill's first year on the team.

EVERETT JUKES, Fullback, Senior

Jukes battered the opponents' line every game and consistently gained ground. He lettered when a a sophomore but was unable to play in his junior year.

BILL BROWN, Fullback, Junior

Bill was very accurate in finding the holes in the opponents' line and was a good defensive player.

JOHN CROWTHER, Quarterback, Senior

John played the blocking back position and was always in the game playing his hardest until the last gun went off.

RICHARD NETHAWAY, Halfback, Senior

Dick did not see as much service as some of the other backfield candidates, but gave his best in regular games or in practice.

CLIFFORD WOLFSON, End, Senior

Although light for a wing man, Cliff was charged with enthusiasm and the desire to win. He was a good pass receiver and always down fast under punts.

CLIFFORD WILBUR, End, Junior

Tib was hard to block out and was always fighting his hardest, winner or loser. He was the best forward-pass receiver on the team.

ROLLAND NELSON, Manager, Sophomore

Rolly, who served as manager, was both efficient and dependable. His optimistic view of football events helped to keep up the morale of the team.

HAROLD KOHMAN, Tackle, Senior

Kohman was a stone wall on defense and could pile through the opponents' line on offensive play. Harold could always be counted on to fill a line gap.

ELTON LARUE, Tackle, Senior

Elt did not see as much regular service as some other lineman but could be relied on to play his hardest no matter what the score.

LEONARD FRIEDSEN, Guard, Junior

Leonard's speed and weight made him a great interference runner. He had no mean ability to knife through the opponents' forward wall on defensive play.

GLENN VAN CLEEF, Guard, Junior

Van Cleef was a hard tackler, active and aggressive, and always was in the game giving his best.

HARVEY MCARTHUR, Guard, Senior

McArthur pierced through the opponents' line on the defense and was practically immovable on offensive play. He was often through the line to spill the ball carrier before he got well in action.

HAROLD NIQUETTE, Center, Junior

Although not very heavy for the pivot post, Niquette passed the ball back smoothly and was a consistent defense man.

ALFRED HARGRAVE, Guard and Center, Sophomore

Al started the season and played in the first few games at guard but later played as a reserve center.

GARVIN VAN MATRE, Halfback, Junior

With a speed that made him hard to catch once he broke away, Van Matre gained yards consistently and should be a mainstay in the team next year.

EARL PADFIELD, Guard, Junior

Earl was a constant fighter and a hard man to block out of a play. Earl did not see regular service this year, but should be a first-string man next year.

BASKETBALL LETTERMEN

"A" AND "B" TEAMS

BASKETBALL

JACK CLARK, Senior, Guard.

Dependable and with a never-give-up spirit, Jack played for all he was worth in the games. He followed his man doggedly on defense and sank many high arching swishers from his guard berth.

JOHN CROWTHER, Senior, Forward

John did not see service in every game, but his coolheadedness made him a very valuable asset to the team. He was consistent and a good ball hustler.

ARTHUR HALE, Senior, Center

"Dude" used his height to the greatest advantage and did his best work under the basket. Although not experienced at the pivot post at the first of the year, "Dude" developed into a steady untiring player.

ALFRED HARGRAVE, Sophomore, Guard

Al played a fine type of basketball this season. He is a good passer and should have two very successful years to come.

BOB KAUFFMAN, Senior, Forward

Swarming all over the opponents and fast on the break, Bob proved to be one of the main spokes in the Maroon wheel. He dribbled with the precision of a clock and passed well. Bob moved here from McPherson early in the school year.

BOB PRINGLE, Junior, Forward

Bob saw in and out service most of the season. Whether on the court or on the bench, he was always eager for victory.

RALPH STOLZ, Junior, Guard

When Stolz got a hot streak, he usually scored from anywhere on the floor. He was also a good defensive player.

BILL QUINLEY, Sophomore, Forward

Size did not hamper Bill any as far as basketball was concerned. Full of scrap and fighting spirit, Bill was always in on rebounds and ready for a setup. Because he was transferred from Sacred Heart, Bill was unable to play the first semester.

WILFORD MCCABE, Senior, Guard

McCabe was one of the most accurate passers on the team and the coolest when the score was close. He saw action in nearly every game although handicapped by an ankle injury.

JUNIOR PURDY, Senior, Forward

With an excellent eye for the basket, Junior was number one in scoring honors. His play was regular and steady.

PAUL PENNOCK, Manager

Paul kept all the equipment of the team in tiptop shape and cheered for the team from the bench.

HIGH SCHOOL TRACK SQUAD

Top Row— Coach Uhrlaub, R. Walker, Magathan, Hargrave, Padfield, C. Eberhart, McCarty, Hall, Hale, Reed, Archer, Gebhardt, J. Walker, Stolz, Ferm

Second Row— Farmer, Hart, Yordy, Ashton, Gordon, Ringle, Banker, Layman, Wolfson, Van Matre, Bowles, Eagle, Baumgartner

Bottom Row— Klein, Creason, Brady, Dalrymple, Stell, Zahn, Park, F. Eberhardt, King, White, Roscoe, Meadows, Davis, Sites

Clippings from The Salina Journal

Salina won "going way" in all of the relays. In the 880-yard event it was Ringle, Layman, Eberhardt, and VanMartre, the Salina quartet taking the lead in the first leg and adding to it every time they passed the baton.

The medley quartet— Wolfson, Meadows and Ringle, virtually broke even with Chapman through the first three legs, but John Walker got the baton from Ringle two strides ahead of the Irish half-miler and soon opened a gap that never was closed. In the strech the Chapman half-miler loafed, thinking he was alone, and was nipped by Herington's closing rush.

In the mile it was Wolfson, Reed Banker and Eberhardt. The Maroons were first to change batons at ever station, Banker and Eberhardt opening the gap to the proverbial mile as they beat Herington home. Herington, incidentally, ran second in all of the relays

The pole vault was taken by Bob Gordon of the Maroons at 10 feet 6 inches. Charles Bowles, another Maroon, captured the broad jump, with Singleton second. Joe Haslouer of the Irish got off a winning javelin throw on his last trial to beat Baer who appeared headed for three first places.

Garvin Van Matre succeeded himself a sprint champion of the conference by winning both the century and furlong sprints with Bill Singleton of Herington running second in each.

Afterwards

To Washington, my Alma Mater,
Do I pledge this bit of verse,
Ever mindful of her memory
Now for better or for worse.

As I stand beside the waters
Of a far and distant sea,
I recall my high school teachers.
Kindly may they think of me.

Ever wondering if the building
Has survived the years gone by,
Pondering on these thoughts of schooldays,
For dear old Washington I sigh.

May I wander to those doorways,
Back again to scenes of yore,
Hear the bells sound through the hallways,
Where my classmates pass no more.

Lone, and weary, do I stand there
Deafened by the rush and noise
Did we also clamor loudly?
Such a mass of girls and boys!

How they rush from hall to classroom,
Shouting greetings to and fro!
How quiescent when the teacher
Tells them what they all should know!

Do they learn it? Well, I wonder –
Did we learn a French translation?
Did we know who fired on Sumter?
– How to mix a physics ratio ?

They'll remember it eventually.
Be discouraged? Don't despair!
Really, I'll come back some day and
Maybe, I will see YOU there!

CLIPPINGS FROM THE 1950 SALINA JOURNAL

New York, May 21 (AP)--Typical among the victims of the recent stock market crash was Mr. J. E. Anderson, late of Salina, Kansas. Mr. Anderson said, "For years I've been telling the students in Salina High School what stocks to buy, and now I've lost everything on the stock market. I can't understand why General Motors didn't go up. Klopj crunos druerf! ! ! ! ! ! ! (Swedish cuss words) I guess I'll have to go back to teaching economics in S. H. S. They can always use a joke around there." Mr. Anderson lost his entire life's savings by overlooking one little fact. He bought General Motors now that airplanes are taking the place of automobiles.

Friends of Wallis Campbell will be saddened to hear that he has been deported because of communistic ideas.

David Moore was in Salina Monday buying merchandise for his "Ladies Shoppe" in Bavaria.

Washington, February 13--Today Owen E. Hodgson, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, gave a decision on the maximum length of school days for high schools. The decision of previous student council was up held; namely, that there should be a maximum of three high school hours a day.

ACT I

All persons without speaking parts seated in the background. O. E. Hodgson with lie detector. K. B. Miles with notes. Chair in center front for suspicious character. M. I. Hoisington at the door.

Hodgson (nervously). All ready.

Hoisington (opens door and announces in loud voice).

Elton La Rue, (then directs him to the chair. Hodgson adjusts lie detector).

Miles. Have I seen you before?

La Rue. Yes ma'am. Is this an electric chair?

Miles. Who threw those pens to the study hall ceiling?

La Rue. I don't know.

Miles (to Mr. Hodgson). Make that thing tighter. Now who threw those pins?

La Rue. (sullenly). I did.

Miles. Any accomplices? Speak up.

La Rue. A - a - ah - Mildred Northern.

Miles. Go to your desk and sign your confession. Next.

Anderson. Forty lashes. Suspended sentance for lady.

Hoisington. Warren Jenny.

(Hodgson adjusts lie detector).

Miles. Did I see you under the table in the library on April 15?

Jenney. I hope not.

Miles. Did I? I am going to find out about this. Let me have the whole story.

Jenney. (after long silence). I left the glee club for a story book and sneaked in the back door of the library. After entering, I made my way on hands and knees to the librarian's desk. When I heard your step, I hid under the table. I—

Miles. That is enough of that miserable story. Judges, give the sentence. Next.

Anderson. Another year of Latin.

Hoisington. Nick Hoffman.

Miles. (sternly after Mr. Hodgson attaches the lie detector) Why are you here? Answer me.

Nick. That's what I want to know.

Miles. Did or did you not drop that water bomb from the physics lab in a premeditated attempt to wash out Mr. Young?

Nick. Who - who told on me? I want his name.

Miles. Don't you ask questions. Answer me.

Hoffman. I did but Livers was fifty-fifty in it.

Anderson. More laboratory work. Six months at hard labor. Arrest Livers.

Hoisington. Paul Pennock.

Pennock. Don't test me. I put the ink in Miss McGill's flower bowl. It didn't hurt the flowers.

Miles. Silence. Sentence, Mr. Chesney.

Chesney. Boil in ink until well done.

Hoisington. Keith Schuerman.

Miles. Read up, Mr. Hodgson? Now, Keith, the true story about those dates in the debate class.

Keith. All the kids had a part in it. We just mixed Mr. Yonng's dates. It was all in fun. If you let me off easy, I'll tell you who put the limburger cheese in his hat. Wow! He was a whole speech department, better than Sully on parade.

Miles. Answer the questions I asked.

Keith. Yes ma'am. No ma'am. The debate class is guilty.

Anderson. No more debates this year. This thing has got to be stopped.

Miles. Next.

Hoisington. Everton Doom.

Miles. Young man, what do you know about the window decorations during the Hallowe'en season?

Everton. Beg pardon? Wha-a-a-t?

Miles. Pull that thing tighter, Mr. Hodgson. Now who decorated the Washington windows? I'll have the truth.

Everton. Well, I guess it's no use to keep silent. A crowd of us seniors -- Esther Reed, Frances Griffith, Margaret Mae Crawford, Doris Nelson, and Keith Schuerman and I were just trying to have a little fun, and—and we did it.

Miles. What! G. R girls mixed up in such an affair? Mr. Hodgson, haven't we had enough of this?

Chesney. One week of hard labor assisting Mr. Buck in increasing present visibility in school rooms.

Hodgson. Court adjourned until tomorrow.

Music by sob sisters.

LIBRARY NOTES

Give Us A Rest

What is this life if, full of zest
We have no time to sit and rest?

No time to sit in sweet content
And dream of how our time was spent.

No time to dream of future things
Or hear the songs the glee club sings.

But always springing up to find
The kind of book that's on some mind.

And listen to the silly gaff
That flows to make librarians laugh.

What is this life if, full of zest
We have no time to sit and rest?

Hints to Book Lovers

To Willy. Write in code hereafter. She left your letter in a library book.

To Kenneth. The librarians do not care to hear your life story. Go back to sleep. It's pleasanter without you.

To John. Try your fascinating personality on the faculty. You need their help.

To Bill. We have a book on sleeping sickness that can be checked out for two weeks. It might enable you to keep awake in class.

To Harvey. We have no call for love lyrics such as you write. Don't leave them in your returned book hereafter. They nauseate the janitor

To Allen. Why read when you are so well inform - ed on all subjects? Leave the books for the Juniors.

To Wayne. The World's Almanac is full of dates. Why not ask for one here?

To Bob. The library gadgets are not for your entertainment. If you want to converse with the librarians, call them on the telephone.

PERFECT TRIBUTES TO SENIORS

Nobly done, dear senior class,
Nobly done, each lad and lass,
For four long years you've borne the brunt
Of Sully's awful Pun-ishment.
—Contributed

I hope they'll get their dance next year.
—W. W. Waring

I've never met with lions wild
And never hope to meet 'em,
But as for wildness when they're riled,
The senior class can beat 'em.
—John I. Young

Well, all I can say is that most of their future lies ahead of them. —L. W. Chesney.

I want a baseball bat, and then –
I want to meet that class again.
—M. A. Buck

Ye gods, send us a senior class
That doesn't act just like the last –

With wooden heads and noisy ways,
With C's and D's, but seldom A's.

Send one that gets its lessons done
Before it even thinks of fun;

Ye gods, don't send a senior class
Unless its different from the last.
– The Faculty

Those seniors were a handful. I want a new deal.—O, E. Hodgson

Miss Smith: As far as I know – they are a grand bunch.

Mr- Lebow: That's a good way to put it.

Let them sleep on and dream their work is done.
—Miss Long

Iuel aplomb mervielleux! —Miss J. Gemmill

I'll soon be on relief. —C. D. Winders

Another interesting educational experiment that had negative results. – Blaine E. Sites.

Their one great claim to greatness lies in the fact that they could so consistently think of themselves as great. —Miss Moore

Well, as a whole they're a pretty good bunch of TROJANS, but after my nine months of VIRGIL and that fourth hour study hall, I think "AENEID" a vacation. —Miss Miles
